

BIOGRAPHY

DANNY DANIELS

A native of Southern California who moved to Oklahoma in 1998, Danny Daniels has grown into a proud Tulsan. Danny earned his B.S. in International Business from Oral Roberts University, with a Minor in Business Spanish from the Institute of Spanish Studies in Valencia, Spain in 2002. In 2015, he earned his Master of Energy Business degree from The University of Tulsa, and is currently a Juris Doctorate Candidate at The University of Tulsa College of Law.

A Vice President with Marsh McLennan Companies, Danny brings a wealth of financial and oil & gas experience to the Tulsa, Oklahoma community. He spent fourteen years as a banker with Arvest Bank and Bank of Oklahoma. He attended the Oklahoma Energy Resources Board's PetroTech program and a residency program with Zenergy, Inc., and Arrow Midstream. He later assisted with the startup of Rebellion Energy.

Danny graduated from Leadership Tulsa, Class 30 and Leadership Oklahoma, Class 34. His nonprofit experience includes serving two terms as board chairperson of the Tulsa Crime Commission, on the executive board of the Arts & Humanities Council, serving as a mentor at Street School, and as a loaned executive for the Tulsa Area United Way. Currently, Danny is actively involved with the Diversity and Inclusion Council at Marsh McLennan, as a board of director for The University of Tulsa's Friends of Finance, a board of director for Town & Country School, and a member of the Oklahoma Real Estate Appraiser Board.

Danny lives in Tulsa with his wife, two sons, and daughter. He is actively involved in his church community, and the various sports and activities in which his children participate.
